

Crittenden Record-Press

VOL. 31

MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, February 17, 1910

NUMBER 42

CHEAP SALE CONTINUED!!

On account of the success of our sale in progress the past two weeks, at the request of many of our customers we have concluded to extend it to

Saturday, February 26th, 1910

We invite everybody everywhere, promising you the same courteous treatment and same low prices. Our goods are the goods you need and they are going at the prices quoted in our recent ad and bills. Remember the extension of time to February 26th.

Main Street

CARNAHAN BROTHERS

Marion, Kentucky.

LETTER FROM HON. MARION F. POQUE

Temperance Fight is Dragging along
Much Feeling Has Been Aroused
Over This Question.

ANY CHARGES OF SELLING OUT
HAVE BEEN RUMORED.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 12, 1910.
Dear Mr. Calmes:

We are sorry that we can not report more progress for this week, for not many measures have passed either houses, but there has been a busy week for the committees, more than a hundred bills have been reported favorably and more than fifty unfavorably or without expression. We have been successful in killing in committees many bills fraught with danger to the public. More mischievous and class legislation has been proposed this time than in any other session in our ten years of experience. Seven out of every ten bills seem to be "loaded" with some kind of job, graft or commission making a place for somebody. The situation at this writing is anything but encouraging to the tax payer. Enough appropriations are asked for to bankrupt the National Government, and the condition of the treasury does not seem to allow any check on the legislation which our conceives there jobs.

So much pernicious legislation has been offered that the persons and professions effected thereby have been flocking here to extortulate against the passage of the same. I will mention jailers, penitents, druggists, doctors, medicine peddlers, dairyman, barbers, printers, etc. But it is strange to relate that I have got to meet a first farmer who has come here at his own or anybody else's suggestion to help his member in legislation, in the committee, that is aimed at him, or to forward the passage of measures named to help him. Hundreds of farmers are here every week, to look around at the sights and go back home apparently well satisfied. I thought last week when four of us were battling in the committee on revenue and taxation to kill the proposed amendment to the constitution, and the bill for a tax commission, and were trying to report favorably the bill to prevent double taxation, that if a score of farmers had come in and argued their side of the case, it would have been holding our hands up, and no doubt successful.

The farmers are sleeping on their rights when they send men to Washington to work for measure and leave the old Kentucky home ungarded, open to the pillage of robbers at their very doors. It's like sending all the money away for foreign missions and neighbors children. This is a striking illustration, but is not over drawn. However hard your representative may work, you will wake up some morning and find a commission made up of representatives of other interests, and the tax on farm lands and other classes of property belonging to farmers raised to almost double the present rate. And all this in the face of the fact, that the farmers taxes are now higher in proportion to the real value of the property listed, than any other calling.

Still I find farmers who will not raise a hand to help the man who is taxed for the farm that he does not own, having paid but little, if anything on it. We have been unable so far to report a bill giving relief.

The anti abortion bill has passed the House and is very drastic, it will doubtless pass the Senate and do much good in keeping down this terrible crime which is increasing every year. The fish and game bill was killed in the House; it was very radical and as proposed, you could not fish or hunt off your own premises without procuring a license, however willing the owner might have been. It also created a commission of several paid officers and a game warden in each county. The fight over the bill was very spirited and resulted in some feeling.

The temperance fight is dragging along; two unsuccessful attempts to bring the County Unit Bill up in the House having been made and failed to get the two-thirds vote.

Much feeling has been aroused over this question. Many charges of selling out has been rumored, and the Senate is investigating the charge.

There is no doubt that some promises have been broken, some sacred trusts have been betrayed and an indignant constituency can only leave vengeance and retribution to Him that said, Vengeance is mine and I will repay.

No law could be made strong enough to punish this Treason of confidence. Only social ostracism will ever reach the evil; the same that you meet out to the highwayman and sneak thief.

PRACTICAL EFFECT OF TOBACCO AMENDMENT

What the Western Tobacco Journal Has to Say About the Stanley Amendment.

READ THE FOLLOWING REPORT—JUST ISSUED.

I am just in receipt of the Western Tobacco Journal of January 31, 1910. The Western Tobacco Journal has decided Trust leanings, and is critical and censorious towards all farmer's tobacco organizations. And yet, as will appear from the following article taken from the columns of the W. T. Journal of last Monday, Jan. 31, the amendment to the tobacco law popularly known as the Stanley Amendment, during the first six months of its operation, created three hundred and forty-three more licensed tobacco dealers, who are purchasers of tobacco in the leaf, who are now purchasers of tobacco in the leaf, for re-sale at retail, whereas under the old law these same dealers could not and did not buy a leaf of tobacco for re-sale in the leaf at retail.

For under the old law all dealers had to pay a six cents tax to sell leaf tobacco by retail, whereas under the Stanley Amendment all dealers may sell tobacco, bought from the producer, in the natural leaf without the payment of one cent in tax. As will be seen from the article to follow, the 343 dealers, licensed under the Stanley Amendment, are scattered over twenty-four States. They have thus far sold one hundred and six thousand pounds of tobacco in the natural leaf. And this is a mere beginning. The sales of leaf tobacco will be cumulative—will increase in geometrical ratio. And within a few years, it is my firm conviction, tobacco growers will have, instead of one Trust buyer, thousands of buyers of tobacco in the natural leaf. I trust every member will attentively read the subjoined article:

RETAIL LEAF

TOBACCO DEALERS

Report by Internal Revenue Department Shows Number Entered Under New Law.

A report has just been issued by the Internal Revenue Department, Washington, D. C., showing the number of persons who have made use of the new law enacted at the last session of Congress by taking out licenses as retail dealers in leaf tobacco. The report is an interesting one, showing, as it does, the effect of the law in the various sections of the country. The list of those who have qualified in the various revenue districts is as follows:

Alabama	10
Arkansas	40
Connecticut	1
Illinois Thirteenth	2
Indiana Seventh	2
Kansas	1
Kentucky Fifth	11
Kentucky Seventh	5
Kentucky Eighth	5
Maryland	3
Minnesota	81
Missouri First	17
Missouri Sixth	59
New Hampshire	1
North Carolina	1
North and South Dakota	2
Ohio Eighteenth	1
Pennsylvania Twenty-third	1
South Carolina	46
Tennessee	7
Texas Third	11
Texas Fourth	1
Virginia Second	29
Total	343

According to the returns received from these qualified dealers, with the exception of those registered during the last quarter of the year, a total of 106,587 pounds of leaf tobacco was disposed of, distributed by districts as follow:

Pounds
Arkansas	2,542
Kentucky Fifth	27,490
Minnesota	3,925
Missouri Sixth	4,537
South Carolina	4,370
Tennessee	53,639
Virginia Sixth	10,084
Total	106,587

ELECTRIC LIGHT GLOBE.

Tunstens and Columbia's will be kept on sale for the convenience of patrons of this company at the following places:

West Salem St. McMurrys store.
South Main St. S. M. Jenkins residence.
East Bellville St. J. H. Porters store.
East Depot St. Power House.
Central town trade D. B. Moores store in Press building, next to Post Office building.
Marion Electric Light & Ice Co. Incorporated.

Shade Trees.

100 ft. tall young soft Maple 1 to 1 1/2 inches by 10 feet tall, 25 cents each. Per dozen $2.50.

W. D. Haynes.

MONDAY WAS COUNTY COURT DAY.

Great Crowds of People Attracted Here From all Over Crittenden and Adjoining Counties.

MUCH FINE STOCK SUR-ROUNDED THE COURT SQUARE

The day dawned bright and clear and with the exception of a strong wind from the south, the day was all anyone could wish. The early riser, from the appearance prophesied a good day with the biggest February crowd for years. And they were not wrong. From sun up until noon the people seemed to pour into town from every quarter.

The North and South bound train bringing quite a number from Henderson, Morganfield, Sturgis, Blackford, Crayne, Fredonia and Princeton. Judge Blackburn convened the county court and in a short time disposed of the regular business docket, which was very light. Much fine stock as well as cheap, was exhibited on the street all around the Court square which made it look like a county fair.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Wm. (Bennette) Hamilton, wife of W. E. Hamilton was born February 4, 1849, died January 22, 1910, aged 60 years, 11 months and 13 days. She was married to W. C. Hamilton, January 18, 1856, with whom she lived a devoted and faithful companion for forty-four years. She professed faith in Christ at the age of sixteen, and joined the Baptist church at Pinkneyville, where she remained a faithful member until she united with the Cumberland Presbyterian church and remained a consistent and faithful member until death.

She leaves to mourn her death one brother, two sisters, husband and four children. She will be missed by all, but by none more than these. Five children have preceded her to that home toward which she has been looking for years, her health failed several months ago and she was confined to her bed most all the time. She suffered with lung trouble, but bore it all so patiently and was always ready to greet her friends with a smile and some pleasant word. As a Christian she was very devoted, as a mother none was more kind and tender, she was a true and devoted companion ever faithful to her trust. Her husband and children never tired of administering to her wants.

Her funeral was preached by the writer in the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Blackford, of which she was a member until death, in the presence of a large congregation, after which she was laid away in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Rev. J. R. King.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT.

Uncle Jesse McDowell our Village Blacksmith, was born Jan. 26, 1836, died in Shady Grove Feb. 3, 1910. Whereas, It has pleased our almighty God in his infinite wisdom and goodness to remove from our midst our beloved brother, friend and benefactor Jesse McDowell. He was 74 years old when he died. His early life was devoted to farming and blacksmithing. He came to Shady Grove over forty years ago and engaged in blacksmithing and remained at this occupation here until his death. He was a member of the F. E. & C. U. of A., and was laid to rest by that order in Shady Grove cemetery, Feb. 5, 1910, there being a large number of relatives, union brethren and friends present.

Therefore be it resolved that we cherish his memory because we honored and loved him and his family have lost a beloved father.

Resolved that the Farmers Union has lost an honored member and one who was every ready to do all in his power to advance the cause of education and co-operation among his friends and neighbors. Also resolved that this be published in the Record-Press and a copy of same be sent his bereaved family.

O. F. Towery,
J. McChesney,) Committee.
H. P. Sigler,)

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our thanks to the good people in this and the surrounding for their kindness shown us during the recent illness and death of our dear Father.

May Gods richest blessings rest on them forever, is our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wheeler,
Mrs. W. F. Oliver, and
Mrs. J. C. Adams.

Administrators Notice.

All parties having claims against the estate of J. B. C. McMeap, who present same to me properly proven by March first or they will be forever barred. I will be at my home about two and one-half miles north of Marion near Harrison Trussell.

Henry Munry, Adm'r.

Winter Clean Up-White Opening

A Riot of Brilliantly Assembled WHITE GOODS For Your Immediate Inspection

An Event in Value-Giving That is Bound to Go Down In Union's History of Exciting Sales!

Tomorrow, Friday, February 11th, this store will be the scene of the most beautiful Spring opening of White Goods ever shown in old Union. We have for months been keep constantly informed of all the newest styles originating from the Famous Fashion Centers and planning accordingly. The most expert decorators of these centers have been keeping our clerks informed on every detail of latest and dreams of new style display, and beginning on the above date this store will be the first to show the new spring styles in the new and magnificent decorations. Hundreds of people are anxiously awaiting it and will be here the first day and you will be glad you come. It's well worth coming miles to see. We ask you to come. Come and view the splendor of White Goods and inspect them yourself.

Mens Underwear

$1.50 Shirts or Drawers	$1.28
1.00 Shirts or Drawers	89c
50c Shirts or Drawers	39c

Mens Dress Shirts

$1.50 Dress Shirts for	$1.28
1.00 Dress Shirts for	89c
75c Dress Shirts for	68c
50c Dress Shirts for	38c

Fall Clothing

Fall Clothing and all odd pants for Men and Boys at one third off.

In connection with this sale we will offer a big lot of bargains in Winter Goods that will mean a big saving to the economically inclined. The prices are marked in plain figures. You will have plenty of time yet to well get there worth before the cold weather is gone. Everybody will be here. These prices will bring them. Read them. Every dollar you spend entitles you to a piano coupon. Feb. 22 we give the piano away.

Ladies and Misses Suits

Here is a list of Ladies and Misses Winter Suites in good style. A remnant of those beautiful suits we have been selling that has gained so much popularity this season. Many will be worn late in the coming season. We must have their room for incoming goods, that's why we cut the price. Read.

$25.00 Suits in this Sale only	$12.50
22.50 Suits in this Sale only	11.25
20.00 Suits in this Sale only	10.00
18.00 Suits in this Sale only	9.00
15.00 Suits in this Sale only	7.50
12.00 Suits in this Sale only	6.00
10.00 Suits in this Sale only	5.00
8.50 Suits in this Sale only	4.25

Ladies and Misses Cloaks at HALF PRICE.

Ladies Top Skirts

$10.00 Skirts in this Sale only	$7.00
9.00 Skirts in this Sale only	6.00
8.00 Skirts in this Sale only	5.50
7.50 Skirts in this Sale only	5.00
6.00 Skirts in this Sale only	4.00
5.00 Skirts in this Sale only	3.00

Skirts

$3.00 Skirts in this Sale	$2.68
2.50 Skirts in this Sale	2.08
2.00 Skirts in this Sale	1.83
1.50 Skirts in this Sale	1.39
1.00 Skirts in this Sale	93c
50 Skirts in this Sale	45c
75c Corset Cover in this Sale	68c
50c Corset Cover in this Sale	45c
25c Corset Cover in this Sale	23c
50c Drawers in this Sale	45c
25c Drawers in this Sale	23c
$1.00 Gowns in this Sale	93c
75c Gowns in this Sale	68c
50c Gowns in this Sale	45c

Ladies Underwear

$1.50 Union Suits	$1.28
1.00 Union Suits	89c
75c Union Suits	68c
50c Union Suits	39c
75c Lapies Vest	68c
50c Ladies Vest	39c
25c Ladies Vests	19c

Ladies Shirt Waists

36 White Shamrock Linene Waists in seven different styles worth $1.50 will close while they last for $1.00

ALL CALICOES GO AT 4 1-2 cents.

This sale commences Thursday, Feb. 11th, close February 22. Goodbye to Piano!

Be Here Friday, Feb. 11, and See the Grand
A and Brilliant Spring Opening.
Marvel of Beauty.

Nothing Like it Ever Seen in This Section. Amazing!

We want you to see the Snow Style Elegance. The Grandest Yet Shown in this Section, Sturgis Dry Goods Company.

Home of Fashion

Sturgis, Kentucky.

"P. S. We Make Good What we Say."

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by
FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill
Patterson and Harriet Ford.

"He'll outgrow that, Judge. You never will," remarked Dupuy, crossing to Nolan's side.

But under every system of free government," pronounced Bartelmy in his best judicial manner, "there have always been conservative and liberal parties, whose leaders, while they differed perhaps in method, have been stimulated by an equal love of country."

"That is true, Judge Bartelmy," said Brand, "but I can't concede that you belong to the conservative party."

The judge showed surprise. "But I don't understand you," he stammered, when Brand went on determinedly.

"Are you not seeking to introduce into our country methods of government undreamed of by our forefathers?"

The judge laughed as though in agreeable tolerance. His skill at verbal juggling was standing him in good stead.

"Oh, I had as much enthusiasm myself in my youth," he said, "but my legal training has forced upon me a certain unfortunate exactitude of thought. But come, come. We old lawyers have long since learned that we cannot carry our quarrels out of court. For instance, of a morning my best friend, Judge Culver, may be at drawn swords with me over some point of law, but the same evening will find us both fellows well met, exchanging stories before a club fire."

Nolan nodded his head understandingly.

"Yes, judge, that's life—that's life," he commented.

"Half the laws of our country are framed up in clubs," interjected Dupuy.

Bartelmy raised his hand and made a gesture of disapproval.

"I wouldn't say that."

Brand saw an opportunity to score. "Likewise the safest methods of evading the laws are framed up in clubs," he shot at Dupuy.

Bartelmy pretended to slide with Brand.

"That's neat, Wheeler," he laughed. "He scored off you that time, Dupuy." Bartelmy paused. He had now reached a point where he was about to make his supreme effort to capture Nolan and the Advance, to make them friendly to him. He was about to play what Dupuy had truthfully termed "the trump card." "By the way, Mr. Nolan, Judge Culver and I usually dine two or three times a week at the Oak Door club. We need you there. We should have a man in all our discussions of public questions—we should have a practical man of affairs who knows what reformers like our young friend here are really trying to get at. Shall I propose you for membership?"

Dupuy watched the effect of Bartelmy's words on Nolan with intense eagerness. It was an anxious moment for both Dupuy and Bartelmy. If Nolan accepted they felt that they were safe. As for Nolan, he was greatly perplexed. He wanted to accept the proffer, both for his own sake and for his family's. Membership in the Oak Door club was equivalent to a ticket of admission into the fashionable circles of the city. He would be able then to put his wife and daughter in the way of gratifying their desires. Sylvester, too, would be benefited in whatever business career he should take up, and the membership would enable him to meet and make his personal friends the most prominent men of the city—the men he naturally craved to associate with—on terms of equality. Then he spoke: "Really, judge," he said warmly, "that's something that I never expected to hear from your lips."

Not at all; not at all; I shall be delighted to put you and Dupuy will second me."

"With pleasure," bowed the lawyer. Nolan hesitated over his final reply. He remembered what Brand had stated regarding the attentions of Judge Bartelmy and his daughter. Probably this offer was a trick, a bribe, and it did not improve the situation to have Dupuy brought into it by the jurist as a second of his nomination. Still, the idea came into his head—if he accepted it he did it with his eyes open; he need not necessarily change the policy of the Advance toward certain public men. Thus he reasoned, and still there lingered within him an insidious desire, even a prompting, in view of the advantages for himself and his family, to accept at all hazards, under any circumstances.

"Thank you, gentlemen, thank you," he said, temporizing. In an endeavor to gain time before actually committing himself. He glanced across the room at Wheeler Brand, wondering how he was accepting the situation. Brand took a quick step forward, straightened himself stiffly and shot a glance of warning over the shoulder of Bartelmy, whose back was turned to him. Nolan nodded his head slightly to show that he understood. Dupuy caught the interchange of signals, and he glared malignantly at the young managing editor. He saw that Brand would do his utmost to swing Nolan away from the subtle snare. Nolan addressed the judge, "I'll think it over—and thank you once more."

Bartelmy and Dupuy started toward a door.

"Now, if you will excuse us, Dupuy and I will join the ladies," said the jurist. "Wheeler, you're not going away yet, eh?" he added.

Brand moved toward the hall door and ignored the query.

"What's your hurry, Wheeler?" asked Nolan as Bartelmy and Dupuy disappeared.

"Oh, it's time to get back to the office."

"H-m! What's the trouble?"

"What's the use of talking about it?"

"Come, get it off your chest."

"I don't have to tell you, Mr. Nolan."

He drew closer to his employer.

"You think Mike Nolan is going back on you—isn't that it?"

The young man's voice rang out in his deep disappointment that Nolan was lingering on the verge of an acceptance of Bartelmy's offer, which could mean only two things if his employer yielded, and these were the muzzling of the Advance and the silencing of Brand as long as he remained on the paper. He blamed Nolan bitterly for failing to spurn the offer outright on the moment.

"Do you think you can accept favors from Bartelmy with one hand," he cried, "and knife him with the other?"

Nolan gave a spirited but kindly reply.

"Hold your horses, Wheeler. You know I don't care anything about this social stunt for myself. It doesn't fit into my life, but remember I've got a family, and nothing comes ahead of them. Mother and I may have a jangle now and then, but after all, we have been side partners for a good many years. And my girl, there ain't a finer educated or a prettier girl in New York, and she ought to be able to go anywhere, but she can't in this town—this cold man's town. Then, of course, there's Sylvester. I know he ain't as bright as he might be, and I've spent—well, more than twice your salary trying to get him through freshman year at Harvard, and I couldn't, but still he's my son, and if he wants to run around with these other sports, why not? I can afford it, and I guess the kid's got to sow his wild oats anyway. My wife and children ought to be happy with the money I've got, and, as I figure it, if I join this Oak Door club I can help them to get what they want. Do you follow me, Brand?"

"Yes; I understand," sighed Brand. "At first you took up the side of the people, and you are continuing at it. But you and your family have become ambitious, or, at least, so far as you are concerned, you are ambitious for them. When you begin to associate familiarly with rich men as their friend you'll soon find yourself playing golf or billiards with one, drinking whisky with another, and your son will marry the daughter of a third. You will forget all about the people. Your paper will become decadent and feeble. The circulation will dry up." He paused for breath and added warningly in strong tones, "The Advance is now at its zenith, but its decline begins the very day that you are elected to the Oak Door club."

Nolan reached over and seized Brand by the shoulder. "Wheeler, you're a decent sort of a fellow. I like you and the things you've made the paper stand for, but you don't know what it means to put people that you love on the altar and cause them suffering for the sake of these—these general principles."

"Don't!" exclaimed the young editor. "Well, that's exactly what I've done. I gave up the girl I loved, who had promised to be my wife, so that I might write the truth." In spite of the emotion which his words had aroused in him Brand's voice never faltered as he spoke.

"You—" exclaimed Nolan amazedly. "Well, my boy, I don't understand you. I couldn't do that," he confessed. "Don't think that it was easy for me to do. I've thought of her every hour of every day since, but she—now his voice wavered—"well, she's forgotten, so it doesn't matter. Mr. Nolan, do you remember what it was that first brought us together?"

"Yes; that story about Judge Bartelmy, and it was a good one, and you've followed it up with a lot of good ones since. Why, Wheeler, there ain't a man in the country that can work up a series like you can. But, do you know, I'm beginning to think that the judge is not all bad. Mind you, I'm not forgetting old scores, but—he seated himself—"did you ever think of it, perhaps we haven't all the facts of that affair? Some things have happened. Are you sure that he's so all-fired wrong?"

"Mr. Nolan, the half hasn't been told about Judge Bartelmy," cried Brand. "Well, this is getting to be a pretty serious affair. We can't be too sure about our facts."

"Mr. Nolan, Judge Bartelmy is not only a dishonest judge, but he seems to have a destructive influence on every one near him. He's corrupt and corrupting, not only in his public but in his private life."

"Wasn't wasn't it his daughter that you were engaged to?"

"Yes, it was, and he's using her just as he did her mother before her."

"You amaze me. What do you mean?"

Brand took a deep breath. "Why, he surrounded her mother with machine politicians and shady financiers and crooked lawyers. He sent her to the state capital when he wanted to be senator, but it was impossible; to Washington when he wanted to be minister to France, and she failed, and again when he wanted to be judge, and she succeeded, and when she found out that he was using his judicial office to steal and that she had only been a lobbyist for his rotten schemes?"

"Well, it killed her, Mr. Nolan, and now he's using his daughter in the same way. He's filling his house with corporation jackals like Dupuy. He sends her here to muzzle you by working on your wife and daughter. He hates me, but he would let her marry me to have his enemy in the family and make him silent."

"Why don't you go to the girl and tell her?" suggested the newspaper owner.

"About her mother and why she died?"

"Well, perhaps not. But I hope you won't follow the Bartelmy story any further. I'll be just as well pleased."

"I've got to follow it, Mr. Nolan. I can't stop," ejaculated Brand. "I've got the goods on him now. I've got a story that will drive him off the bench when we print it."

"What?" half rising.

"True, every word of it," Brand paced nervously across the room. "For God's sake, Wheeler, don't go off at half cock!" cried Nolan.

"Half cock! Why, I tell you I've got the facts. I've been working on it for months."

"Now, listen to me. You're a young man, in spite of what you say about him I know that in his public life he's mighty well thought of by some of the most prominent men in this city, and—"

"weakly," well, if they believe in him I don't see—"

"why?"

"Will nothing convince you?" excitedly. "If he should offer me a bribe to kill this story would you acknowledge then that he's a crook?"

"Why, yes, of course I would."

"Will you let me print that story in my own way and promise not to interfere?"

"Yes. But the girl," Nolan reminded him—"how do you think she'll feel if you print that story?"

But Brand was not to be swerved from his purpose.

"It can't be helped. I've got to go on. Somehow you know the thought comes to me that perhaps it all may turn out for the best."

"Well, I hope so," commented the newspaper owner, "but, man alive, this story will!"

He was forced to cease abruptly, for Judge Bartelmy and Ed Dupuy entered the drawing room and drew near.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE abruptness with which Brand separated from Nolan as they appeared aroused the suspicions of both the judge and his lobbyist satellite. However, they little imagined the pronounced seriousness of the conversation they had interrupted. In the mind of each ran the thought that the Advance's proprietor and his editor had been discussing the proposal to elect Nolan to the Oak Door club. Even a failure in this laudable venture they would have considered a serious setback, but probably had they an intimation regarding the story Brand wanted to write and the effort that was to be made to detect the judge in offering a money bribe they would have exhibited less of the easy assurance that marked their re-entrance into the drawing room.

"Mr. Nolan, I'm afraid I just be going," said Bartelmy. "I hope to see you at my house soon, and you, too, Wheeler."

Nolan rose from his chair.

"Judge, can you spare me a few moments?" put in Brand resolutely.

The judge gave a look of surprise.

"Certainly, my boy; certainly. Will you excuse me?" turning to Nolan.

Nolan, surprised at the readiness of Brand to begin on the plan to entrap Bartelmy, readily assented and proceeded into the library with Dupuy.

"Well, Wheeler, what can I do for you?" asked Judith's father.

The young man stepped close to the other and faced him squarely.

"Judge, how about your latest decision in the Lausung Iron case today?" he asked.

Bartelmy started back in surprise.

"It was in accordance with the statutes and the constitution," he finally said.

"The supreme court of the United States was at variance with you in a similar case," advised Brand.

"Sir," indignantly, "I decline to discuss out of court questions relating to my conduct on the bench."

The judge moved as though to go.

"You weren't so particular this morning."

Bartelmy began to lose his confident, easy pose.

"I fail to comprehend you," he answered.

"Early this morning, between 1 o'clock and 3," went on the unrelenting editor.

The judge turned his head to one side and tugged nervously at his gray beard.

"A reporter for the Advance saw you come out of your house at four minutes to 1 and walk to a house on Washington avenue that belongs to the attorney for the Lausung Iron corporation."

Bartelmy turned his back on Brand, a furtive look coming into his eyes as he did so.

"You knocked at the servants' door, judge," continued the editor. "This man admitted you. One hour and fifty-seven minutes later you left that house by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—po-

by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lausung Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts."

FINAL PRICES

Every remaining Winter Garment must be sold to make room for new spring merchandise. Prices that will make you "sit up and take notice."

REMEMBER We have lots of CLOTHING

We can't quote you the price—on account of the small quantities

BUT THE PRICE

is the smallest thing about it—
Less than 1-2 price on this kind.

CLOTHING PRICES

So attractive that if you come to look you will stay to buy
Suits—Overcoats—Pants with the big end of the profit yours
On some lots they are less than the Cost of Making.

See them $12. & $14. Suits at $8.50
ODD PANTS AT 33 1-3.

Boys and Childrens Suits and Overcoats 1-4 OFF
OVERCOATS WITHOUT the PROFIT.

House full of Clothes Bargains

Remember these are the Good Style Clothes.

Our Sale IS Everyday TODAY-TO-MORROW AND EVERYDAY

We've Somethings for You
Come and Get Them
THEY ARE

Real Live Bargains

And when you see them you'll want them

They carry the Work of Style-Quality and Low Price--They Include all our WINTER GOODS Use your dollars to go FARTHEST. The Lowest Prices--The Best Qualities.

YANDELL--GUGENHEIM COMPANY.

SPRING SHOWING OF
New Gingham. New White Goods. New Linens. New Wool Goods. New Laces and New Embroideries.

The greatest Embroidering values ever shown

They are at one-half Price

Two thousand Yards of Real Linen Lace at 5cents the Yard Worth From 7 to 20cts the yd.

Shoe BARGAINS

We handle the best there is for the Money
None but all Leather

Shoes

When you hear of Shoe Bargains we've Always Got Them

The Crittenden Record-Press

N. E. CALMES Editor and Publisher.

Entered as second-class matter February 9th 1907 at the postoffice at Marion, Kentucky, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

One Dollar the Year in Advance.

CASH ADVERTISING RATES:
25c per inch S. C. to Foreign Advertisers.
20c per inch S. C. to Home Advertisers.
Repeated ads one-half rate.
Metal bases only used for Plates and Electron.
Locals 5c per line.
Locals 10c per line in twelve point type.

TURN ON THE LIGHT.

Senator Watkins should not only give that investigating committee the name of his informant, but, for the sake of his own honor, he should relate in such circumstantial detail as to be entirely convincing that he was recklessly repeating idle gossip when he said, in a public meeting:

"I do not know this of my own knowledge, but I know as well as a man can know anything that he has not heard and seen with his own ears and eyes that four senator sold their votes for a total of $20,000."

This charge may be well founded. If it is, the four guilty senators should be summarily dealt with; if it is not, Senator Watkins has put himself in a most unenviable plight. Let the whole truth be known.—Owensboro Messenger.

The Messenger is in a whisky town and of course for the whisky interests but surely wrong when it asserts that Senator Watkins has put himself in an unenviable plight.

To the contrary, Senator Watkins, from the proud district, composed of Henderson and Union counties, if impeached would be sent back by an overwhelming vote that would readily show the sentiment of opinion there.

The truth is, Watkins can not be bought and his fearlessness in asserting what he believes to be true, hurts. It is always thus. If false, it would be easily overcome. But the truth thrown in the teeth of a gang who care little for their constituency stings deep. If there were more like Watkins, the banner of truth and right would be waving from every town in Kentucky to-day and there would be happier wives and mothers and fewer drunkards in every house.

Certain Senators were elected by wet constituencies by wet majorities, on wet pledges. There were also certain dry Senators elected by dry constituencies, by dry majorities on dry pledges. Everyone of the former have stuck. Several of the latter have changed something they are pleased to call their "minds."

Whatever may be the outcome of the Watkins investigation one thing is settled—the Senators who have opposed the passage of the County Unit bill will have a hard time to explain their votes. They are under grave and serious suspicion. And what is more the Senate cannot send the people to the penitentiary for their thoughts.

The Manufactures Record last week produced a picture of the new National Bank building soon to be erected in the Spring at Paducah. This new structure will be ten stories high and will cost $200,000. Wm. L. Brainert, of Paducah is the Architect and the Falls City Construction Company, of Louisville, are the contractors.

MUSIC RECITAL.

The pupils of the Expression and Music classes will give a recital at the Opera House on Friday evening, Feb. 18, at 8 p. m. The program will consist of a George Washington Minstrel, Music Ensembles, a farcial comedy and an Indian chorus. General admission 25 cents. Reserved seats 35 cents. Seats on sale at Haynes & Taylor's Drug Store.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

FIELD DAY

In all Churches Sunday Morning
With Union Service at Methodist Church at Night.

Rev. N. A. Palmer, State Superintendent of the Kentucky Anti-Saloon League, will preach the annual sermons. This will be Rev. Palmer's first visit to the city and doubtless he will receive a fine reception. He is a very able man, of spotless character, and has made good as Superintendent of the Minnesota League. The temperance question is the burning issue of today.

New York, Feb. 17.—Planning for the biggest birthday present in history to be given by the American people for the father of their country on the 22nd of this month, leaders of the national movement to build a $2,500,000 George Washington Memorial Hall at Washington, D. C. are completing their campaign to assure the project in this city to-day. With the active support of every national patriotic and learned society as well as thousands of public spirited citizens already secured, the George Washington Memorial Association is now confident that the people of this country will join to celebrate Washington's Birthday this year by offering this living monument to carry out Washington's wish for the "general diffusion of knowledge". If every American will lend hand during the next few weeks, it is declared, this great auditorium sadly needed by all the national organizations of the country may be started on the 178th anniversary of the birth of the first president.

Hundreds of members of the Washington Academy of Sciences

the National Federation of Art, the National Academy of Sciences and the American Medical Association, as well as of the Grand Army of the Republic, the United Confederate Veterans, the Daughters of the American Revolution and other patriotic bodies are to-day actively working to enlist the support of the people in every section of the country for this Washington memorial. Thousands of children in the schools of every state in the Union are also reported to be calling upon their playmates to give a dime to buy one brick in the great structure that will carry out Washington's last wish. Preachers, teachers and public speakers are volunteering from many communities to rally their townsmen for the big Washington's Birthday project. In every town in the land it is proposed to hold mass meetings and raise funds for this birthday gift of the American people to George Washington.

To "promote institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge" according to the parting admonition of Washington to his people, is the object of the proposed headquarters and auditorium that is to be built for all the learned societies of the Nation in his name. Leaders in scientific and educational work to-day assured Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, president of the George Washington Memorial Association, who is the leading the movement at 25 East 60th street in this city, that the present lack of adequate convention facilities at Washington is seriously hampering their progress as well as shaming this country in the eyes of the learned societies of other Nations. Nothing could further the spread of science and knowledge better than the erection of such an institution as the George Washington Memorial Hall, they declare. "Every American owes a moral debt to George Washington whose last request of his people was for just such an institution as we hope to see raised in his name," said Mrs. Dimock to-day. "It is to carry out the dearest wish of our first president that we are asking all loyal Americans to contribute to the establishment of the George Washington Memorial Hall which we are assured is the thing most needful to promote knowledge in the Nation to-day. Every contributor will receive a certificate as a holder of a perpetual interest in the big building as well as a souvenir button from our headquarters at 25 East 60th street, where substantial support is always being received from all over the country."

FOR SALE.—One Black Birkshire sow with 9 fine pigs, six weeks old. Come see them.

G. F. GUESS,
Marion, Ky., Route 4.

FOR SALE.—A few full blooded Brown Leghorn coorrels for sale. W. W. Rice, Route 2, Box 6, Marion, Ky. 2ip

WANTED

Horses and Mules

One of the Leavell Bros., of the Atlanta Horse & Mule Company, will be in

MARION,
Sat., Feb. 19, 1910

For the Purpose of Buying Horses and Mules
Bring them in. We will be there to see them.

We hope to find the largest number of horses and mules in Marion Saturday, than ever seen on the streets before

We are coming Look for us!!

LEAVELL BROS.

Atlanta Horse & Mule Co.

PERSONALS

E. L. Kemp, of Iron Hill, was here Saturday.

Elbert Scott, of Fredonia, was in town Monday.

James Pickens, of Tribune, was in town Saturday.

W. W. Ward, of the county, was in town Saturday.

H. F. Haynes, of Crayne, was here Monday.

Jas. A. Daughtry, of Fords Ferry, was in town Monday.

G. C. Kirk, of the county, was one of the big crowd Monday.

A. D. Crider, of the county, was in Marion Saturday.

J. L. Rodgers, of Fredonia, was in town Saturday.

D. N. Riley, of Fredonia, was in Marion Saturday.

J. H. Brouster, of Salem, was in Marion Saturday.

Tom W. Walker, of Repton, was in town Monday.

Tom and Ewell Hardin, of Irma, were in town Monday.

W. D. James, of Crayne, attended court here Monday.

Mrs. W. D. Baird is on the sick list this week.

Dan Hubbard and family have moved to Tribune.

A. Tinsley has been seriously ill the past week.

J. K. Smith has been on the sick list for the past ten days.

Johnson Crider of Fredonia, was in the city Monday.

J. W. Lowery, of Salem, was here with the rest of the big crowd.

Uncle Billy Joel Hill, of Hill's Chapel, was looking cheerful on the streets here Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Russell returned on last Tuesday from a pleasant visit to Texas.

Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Gibbs and Sheridan, were pleasant visitors at our office Monday.

James Daughtry, who has been living in Sikeston, Mo., has returned to Kentucky.

Harry Walker, of Birmingham Ala., spent a few days in the city this week.

Tom Wilborn, who has been working in Knoxville, Tenn., is spending a few days at home.

T. H. Cochran sold five fine saddles Monday besides those sold by other members of the firm.

R. H. Moor sold a span of fine mules on last Monday for $350.00 and refused $400. for another span.

Leavell Bros. will be in Marion Saturday to buy horses and mules. They are good men and pay liberal prices.

Dr. Vernon R. Fox, a popular physician of Crayne, has returned from a visit to friends in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Shrodes, of Christney, Mo., is visiting Mrs. LeRoy Shrodes at the home of C. E. Jones.

Mrs. N. R. Cochran, who fell recently and broke her ankle, is rapidly improving.

Rev. W. L. Shell was on the sick list a few days last week, but is now able to be out again.

Norman Henry, one of the valiant force of the Bourland office, on the sick list this week.

Prof. J. W. Rascoe, President of the Farmers Union, was in Marion from Thursday until Tuesday.

Sheek Coleman, of the Shady Grove neighborhood, bought a Delker buggy of T. H. Cochran & Company Monday.

Rev. W. R. Gibbs has been called to Ameus for the year and will preach his first sermon there the Second Sunday in March.

J. B. Cambron, Geo. Higginson, and Clif McCauley, prominent stock dealers of Morganfield and Union county, were in Marion Monday buying stock.

Sam Towery, of Shady Grove and Hershell and Earle Butler, bought fine "blue grass" saddles of T. H. Cochran & Co., Monday.

Mrs. H. A. Cameron left last Friday for Monroe, Wis., to attend the bedside of her son, Tom Cameron, who recently broke his leg. Tom is telegraph operator there where he has many warm friends.

Tobacco canvas, in any quantity at Taylor & Cannan's.

Save money by getting your tobacco canvas from Taylor & Cannan.

You can save anywhere from $3.00 to $8.00 on a Winter suit by buying from Taylor & Cannan.

The Farmers Union of Crittenden county is now more than one thousand strong and growing every day.

Miss Anna Finley, who has a fine position as book keeper in Nashville, Tenn., is at home on a visit.

Jeff Clements left last week to visit his family who are spending the winter in Florida.

Luke Reeves the popular salesman for J. M. Robinson, was in town Tuesday.

Emmitt Koltinsky, now holding a prominent position in Evansville, visited his parents here Sunday.

G. P. Griffith, Secretary of the Farmers Union, was in town Monday.

Bart Summerville, of Mattoon, was in town Monday.

Miss Frances Hoover of Sheridan, is the guest of Miss Gussie Burgett.

Miss Bair, of Tenn., is the guest of Mrs. Jack Baker.

Rev. M. E. Miller has purchased the nice home of Judge J. A. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Davidson left Tuesday for Stigler, Okla., to make it their future home. They were among our most highly respected citizens and while we are sorry to lose them, we wish for them the good treatment they so richly deserve in their far-away new home.

M. E. Frisbie, a very highly respected citizen of Marion, who has been on a protracted visit to the East, returned home last week.

Mrs. J. N. Boston spent Sunday with friends at Sullivan.

Miss Florence Mae Hurst, of Sturgis, is the guest of Miss Mabel Minner.

Misses Kate Kelly and Maude Gilliland spent Sunday in Sturgis the guest of Miss May Hoyt.

Whatever you do don't forget to be at the great Temperance Rally at the Methodist Church Sunday night. It will be a union meeting and some splendid special music has been prepared for the occasion. To miss it will be to miss a great treat. Rev. N. A. Palmer, State Secretary of the Kentucky Anti-Saloo League, will deliver the address and as he is rated one of the ablest men in the state this service is sure to prove interesting.

Rev. M. E. Miller at Sturgis.

Rev. M. E. Miller, pastor of the First Baptist church at Marion is in the midst of a great revival at Sturgis. There were ten or more profession Sunday night and with those having previously professed, it has proved the most interesting meeting held in this good town in a long time. During our visit there Monday we were glad to hear Bro. Miller spoken of in such high terms by all the denomination.

A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION

Not a Mine Disaster or a Ship blown up, but an explosion of regular prices on almost every kind of winter goods.

How it Happened.

We must make room for Spring Goods and in order to clean up all winter articles, we carefully Carried the "BOMB" to the Editor of the Record-Press, who after carefully applying the "BATTERY" has blown these LOW PRICES into the home of every subscriber.

Now it is up to you to take advantage of them.

LOOK HERE !!

$20.	Suits	$14.00
18.	"	13.50
16.50	"	12.00
15.00	"	11.50
12.50	"	9.50

Besides these we have only one or two suits of a kind, that we have brought down stairs to close out in the next two weeks at ONE HALF the regular price.

Some Extra Pants

that you can get for less than Wholesale Price. Now if you want good clothing cheap it will pay you to investigate these values.

THIS EXPLOSION ORIGINATED AT TAYLOR & CANNAN'S

AN AWFUL RECORD.

Every year thousands of men and women die of kidney disease who might have been cured if its presence had been discovered in time and a prompt treatment with Kidneys adopted. If you have backache, kidney trouble or other symptoms of kidney disease, being using Kidneys immediately. Druggists and dealers sell it for 50 cents.

A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

Must have beautiful skin. Bell's Antiseptic Salve removes pimples, black heads, chaps, and roughness, leaving the skin smooth. Try it on our guarantee.

Boys Kne e Pants Suits

Here is another place where you can save good money. We are over stocked in this line and you can profit by our misfortune. We must close them, so you know what this means to you.

Money Saved on Heavy Shoes

Some heavy shoes at less than factory price. ASK TO SEE THEM.

Several patterns in Dress Goods at reduced prices, all first-class Style and Quality.

Spring Goods

New Gingham at 10c that many will charge you 12 1-2 and 15c for

Embroideries

Direct from the Importers to us. Quality, Style and Pattern that surpasses all previous purchases at prices exceedingly low. Pure Linen Torchon at 5c per yard

Val. Laces, New pattern, fine quality and low prices.

TOBACCO CANVAS

Don't fail to see our line and get our prices before buying. It will be money to you.

MAILED FREE

My Price Lists and Catalogue of Greenhouse and Budding Plants.

Write for a copy before placing your orders elsewhere.

FREE TO ALL

A Post Card will bring it. John E. Rackebrandt

NOTICE TO COUNTY UNION.

To all who have pooled their tobacco in the Farmers Union pool, we wish to say that after this week we will not receive any tobacco until we have a good season, for the reason that we wish to make our expense as little as possible, which we can not do while the tobacco is coming 1 or 2 and 3 loads a day. So we insist that you get your tobacco ready as soon as possible and bring it in and be sure and class it right and not have it high enough in order to be in a damaging condition, and you will be satisfied with the price. The pooling papers are now out for this 1910 crop and we want to urge for your good and the good of the order that every Farmers Union man in the county pool their tobacco.

It is being said that some on the outside have got better prices than was gotten in the pool, this is doubtful, but suppose it to be true we know that these prices were obtained while the Farmers Union and the Steming District were holding their pools at 8 cents. But after the pools were sold we challenge the man to show that he obtained a better price than the pools. The buyers invariably tell us that they much prefer to buy the tobacco on pools and advise that everybody pool, as they say it is much less expense to them and more satisfactory than having their agents ride all over the county to buy, consequently they can pay more for it. Now let every man do his duty and prosperity for the whole country is ours.

J. P. PIERCE,
Chairman Committee.

PRESIDENT HELPS ORPHANS

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this Institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50 cents at Haynes & Taylor.

NEW MARION HOTEL

A. F. FRANKLIN, Prop.
J. C. ELDER, Jr. Clerk

Refurnished from TOP to BOTTOM.
Good Sample Rooms For Commercial Men.

PORTER MEETS ALL TRAINS.

BEST $2.00 PER DAY HOUSE IN THE COUNTY.

MAKING LIFE SAFER.

Everywhere life is being made more safe through the work of Dr. King's New Life Pills in Constipation. Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Liver troubles, Kidney Diseases and Bowel Disorders. They're easy, but sure, and perfectly build up the health. 25c at J. H. Orme's, Marion, Ky.

FOR SALE.

Two fine brood mares, due to foal in spring. 10 and 8 years old.
C. R. Newcom.

Marion, Ky.

T. H. Cochran & Company sold four Geo. Delker buggies the past few days, the effects of advertising. And they are still running it on the first page. Read and profit thereby.

FOR SALE.

Two good work mules, one horse, and a lot farming implements. Will sell for cash or on twelve months time with good note bearing interest.
EUGENE CLARK

Toiu, Ky

SUTHERLAND'S EAGLE EYE SALVE
Good for Nothing but the Eyes.

A COUGH.

Is a danger signal and should not be neglected. Take Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey at once. It allays inflammation stops the cough and heals the membrane.

WANTED.

An agent in this section to handle our sick, accident and life insurance certificates on a very liberal renewal contract. Write at once, Kentucky State Manager, 1030-1041 Drexel Building, Philadelphia, Penn.

SOUR STOMACH

Mi-o-na Puts the Stomach in Fine Shape in Five Minutes.

If your stomach is continually kicking up a disturbance; you feel bloated and distressed; if you belch gas and sour food into the month, then you need Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets give instant relief, of course, but they do more; they drive out the poisonous gases that cause fermentation of food and thoroughly clean, renovate and strengthen the stomach so that it can readily digest food without artificial aid.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are guaranteed to cure indigestion, acute or chronic, or money back. This means that nervousness, dizziness and biliousness will disappear. Druggists everywhere and Haynes & Taylor sell Mi-o-na for 50 cents.

"I was under the care of four different doctors during nine months and was cured of dyspepsia by Mi-o-na." Mr. Joseph Grondine, 197 Fountain Street, Fall River, Mass.
Booth's Pills for constipation—25 cents.

SIGHT TOO VALUABLE.

To be neglected, Sutherland's Eagle Eye Salve will cure any case of sore eyes, granulated lids, ophthalmia or any inflamed condition of the eyes. Painless and harmless. 25 cents a tube at all dealers.

Kodol is for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sour stomach, or for any stomach trouble. Kodol is very pleasant to take and it acts promptly. It digests all the food you eat, for it is composed of the very same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. It is guaranteed to relieve you and is sold here by all druggists.

GOOD. All-purpose horse for sale. This is one of the best conditioned horses to be found anywhere. He will weigh about 1,200 pounds. Will sell for cash or on time, with good note. For other information, call at the Record-Press office.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O. To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense. Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally. Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 600 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's
Vegetable Compound

Mrs. AUGUSTE VESPERMANN, De Forest, Wisconsin.

Another Operation Avoided.
New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first, and was cured before an operation."—Mrs. Lily DeVore, 1111 Kerlerec St., New Orleans, La.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirm the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

If you want special advice about your case write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

MY TRIP TO NIAGARA FALLS

By Mrs. W. N. Rochester.

I want to thank my friends who still continue to solicit me to write up our trip for the honor conferred on me over my earnest protest. I fear that my description will not measure up to the standard that you will expect or that I might wish. The task would not seem arduous if I was not sure there were others in the party more capable.

My son and I left Marion, August 2nd, 1909, would have had a long lay over in Princeton, but learned we could get a train to Central City so we spent the night with my brother's family there. At Cecilian Junction a large party got on the train going to Niagara Falls and one of the number stopped and gave me a lousy hand shake, but when I marked him I know that is some Methodist sister and sure it was, we met at the Missionary Convention at Greenville. We arrived in Louisville at eight o'clock, had a little one o'clock to do as we liked. We got on a car and took in the principal part of the city, including Cave Hill Cemetery—the beautiful city of the dead.

We then repaired to the 10th Street station and found a large number collected. We were to be personally conducted by Prof. Moore and Mr. Crutcher. I was to chaperon three young ladies, two of them I had never seen. Our party numbered forty-six, seven young men and the others were matrons, school mamas and young ladies. We were not able to find either of our conductors, but when the train pulled up placarded with all aboard for Niagara Falls, we all with one accord got aboard the car. In a few minutes a man came through the car with a look of inquiry depicted on his face and when I found it was Prof. Moore, I at once made known a change came over him at once, he said the lady from Morgansfield that you are to chaperon and I have walked miles over the station looking for you. The trip from Louisville to the Falls was without incident, when night came on and the porter got busy preparing the beds something serious got wrong with my breathing and by the time he was through I had my pillow making a hasty retreat to the day coach, there I met a lady who like myself could not stand the closeness of a sleeper, that assisted me in making a good bed from the seat and two of the backs.

We arrived at Niagara City at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning and went to the Temperance Hotel, where we found a good breakfast awaiting us. As we hurried from the Hotel to Prospect park urged on in our race by the swelling notes of the mighty Niagara Anthems. Niagara is one of the great wonders of the world, no less wonderful because time and much thought must be brought to bear in comprehending it. They were so marvelously and wonderfully beautiful. We all felt the rush of excitement and expectancy when we paused, pressed to the very verge of the land which might well be termed the Brink of Eternity. We were awed by the beauty of the scene and were reduced to a sense of our own littleness and almost rendered speechless as all others were at the mighty wonders that confronted us, and not a single wonder, but a great volume of wonders bound compactly together.

When one recovers from the first emotional effect of this grand spectacle and has realized something of its unique combination of grandeur matchless beauty and power, the spirit of inquiry is at once aroused in us. From Prospect point we see the American falls, American rapids Horse shoe and Luna falls. From there we went on the Canadian side and saw the same but different views. We donned our rubber coats preparing for a trip in the Mail of the Mist steamer to get a perfect view of the mighty cataract.

One who misses this trip fails to see Niagara in all its grandeur and it is only from the hurricane deck that one is able to drink in the beauty of the mighty display of the Creator's great handiwork. Carriages we then ordered for a drive in the parks, we left the carriages and walked over Goat Island bridge and through Luna Island, three Sister Island and little Brother Island. These Islands afford endless delight, picturesque scenery abounds everywhere. The shores of the Island are skirted by the most delightful lovers lanes, which are made safe as well as beautiful by rustic railing a long the waters edge.

From there we drove to the Home of the shredded wheat, we found a magnificent building, a large convention hall with seating capacity of over 1,000 and a large dining room where they gave their employees their noon day meal free of charge and beautiful rest room and numerous

-take advantage of the low fares southwest via the Cotton Belt

this month—don't put off your trip southwest until the opportunities there are gone.

You know that there are big chances for you in the great southwest—you know, too, that they'll soon be all taken. Why delay your trip? These low fare tickets via Cotton Belt Route to Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico are sold on the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of each month. Plan now to go on the next excursion. You'll have 25 days to look around and you can stop over both going and returning.

The Cotton Belt is the direct line from Memphis to the Southwest, through Arkansas. It operates two daily trains, carrying through sleepers, chair cars and parlor-cars. Trains from all points Southeast make direct connection at Memphis with Cotton Beltrains for the Southwest. Let me give you full information, illustrated booklets, etc. Write today to both, after being shown through the building we were invited to the dining room and served free of charge with their products. Should I ever have my living to make to the Home of the shredded wheat I would go.

L. C. Barry, T. P. A.
Cotton Belt Route
83 Todd Bldg. Louisville, Ky.

One day of sight seeing over we had the evening at our disposal we visited some of the curious statues in which Niagara abounds. I saw Mrs. Anna Edison Taylor who shot the Horse Shoe falls Oct. 24, 1910, in a barrel. Niagara is a most beautiful city by night by night the lights are so artistically arranged. Thursday was planned for the Great George trip to Lewiston and from there to Toronto, Canada. To attempt to describe this wonderful trip would be but to admit one inadequacy to the task. The car threads its way along the waters edge at the foot of the rock cliff and as the tumbling tossing waters roll towards us we realize more than ever the enormous force and the overwhelming power of the river of rivers.

We pass the devil's hole so interesting in history, we almost feel the cruel eddy as we ride along so near its edge. We now come to the wonder of wonders, the whirl pool rapids where wave after wave dashing mountains high and then plunges fathoms deep, when the turbulent waters seem to be going in every direction when the most enormous rocks appear and disappear as if by magic. Gradually we begin to ascend as we advance each step we behold something new and wonderful this trip affords a great variety of scenery of striking picturesqueness.

We arrived at Lewiston and ate our breakfast on the steamer, we were on deck all the way and could see in the distance Brooks monument towering 200 feet high. Brooks was to Canada what Washington was to the United States, a little farther on we saw Old Fort Niagara in close proximity to it a stone house built by the French and has stood the ravages of time since 1725. We were out of sight of land for sometime, when we reached Toronto, we all took a Tahoe drive. We were much surprised to see such a magnificent city, with its immense business houses, its churches, school facilities, unspoiled and hotels while numerous a transient can not get anything to eat on Sunday.

We went into the Parliament building. I have the honor of sitting in the chairs said to have been occupied by the King and Queen. There is a square in Toronto noted for Salvation (church) education (school building). Starvation (Hotel) and damnation (Brewery.) There are no saloons in the city. We drove to the Price George Hotel, after partaking of a sumptuous dinner beautifully served, we had the afternoon to do as we pleased, most of us spent it in the great stores which Toronto abounds. Simpsons is the largest store in Canada and all tourist center there.

While driving the guide pointed out King James Cathedral and in it was the largest organ in the world, one of the ladies in my car got the idea that her trip would be greatly marred if she did not see King James Cathedral and the large organ, from where we were it looked very near yet proved to be so far. We finally got on the inside and took a hasty view of the wonderful structure and its lofty domes reverently touching the organ. I turned to depart and found my friend in the attitude of prayer, I was conscious of the fact we had no time to linger for prayer, but must run and pray as we ran that the steamer might not leave us. There is one thing I shall always be thankful for and that is that we did not get arrested before we left Toronto. I ran into a newsboy, knocked his papers helter skelter. There is no telling the fate of a man I collided with if it had not been for his two fifty pounds or there about avordupois.

We were more than glad when we found the steamer waiting for us. After we got some china from the delivery booth (I am sure Prof. Moore will long remember that box of china and I have painted it and I invite the party to visit me and I will serve you out of it) when arrived at the steamer I was looking very much like a boiled lobster, and calapsed. I have forgiven but I can not forget that 6 o'clock dinner I missed on the account of King James Cathedral. I yet have my favor which was a half bloom Canadian rose banked in beautiful fern.

We were indebted to the mayor of Niagara for the moonlight view of Niagara, we left the hotel at 10:30 p. m., to see Niagara falls by moonlight beggars description, no tongue can tell or pen portray its rare beauties. It is a dream picture, the notes of the mighty cataract makes us know all this beauty is real. The last day of our stay was spent in another view of the falls and a visit to the great electrical power plant, it is the largest electrical generator ever constructed generating thousands of horse power. In the afternoon we went to Buffalo and spent five hours there. Tourists visiting that city are impressed by three things, the cleanliness, asphalt streets and bright lights at night, the first and last is largely the result of Niagara electric power.

When taking an automobile ride we passed the Milbourn House where President McKinley died. We took supper at the Iroquois Hotel and at 9 o'clock we started for home. By this time the party was very well acquainted and we were a congenial lot. In the party was two moons, one new, the other old, they were not the shining kind. A Leon, but no one was devoured, a Rymer, but no verses, a Comfort and little was with one Overall not the kind men wear when not on dress parade, a Cook, but nothing to eat and two Hotels not whose service appeases hunger, two Oldhams, but not the frying kind.

When we got to Louisville our train was waiting. My brother R. Y. Thomas was aboard getting home from that belated congress, we stopped over night with him. Arrived home at 8 o'clock on Sunday morning. The conductor on the last division said it was well we were getting home or my ticket would have to be duplicated it was to a frazzle. This was the trip of my life. We stopped at the best hotels and had the very best service, our conductors were so very courteous to everyone and took so much pains to see that I had a good time. I never saw so much for as little expense in my life.

Mrs. W. N. ROCHESTER.

For clear head and a strong mind. DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little liver pills. Sold by all druggists.

Stops Lameness

Much of the chronic lameness in horses is due to neglect.

See that your horse is not allowed to go lame. Keep Sloan's Liniment on hand and apply at the first sign of stiffness. It's wonderfully penetrating—goes right to the spot—relieves the soreness—limbers up the joints and makes the muscles elastic and pliant.

Here's the Proof.

Mr. G. T. Roberts of Resaca, Ga., R. F. D. No. 1, Box 43, writes:—"I have used your Liniment on a horse for some time and effected a thorough cure. I also removed a spavin on a mule. This spavin was as large as a goose egg. In my estimation the best remedy for lameness and soreness is

Sloan's Liniment

Mr. H. M. Gibbs, of Lawrence, Kans., R. F. D. No. 1, writes:—"Your Liniment is the best that I have ever used. I had a mare with an abscess on her neck and one of your bottles of Sloan's Liniment entirely cured her. I keep it around all the time for galls and small swellings and for everything about the stock."

Sloan's Liniment will kill a spavin, curb or splint, reduce wind puffs and swollen joints, and is a sure and speedy remedy for asthma, sweency, founder and thrush.

Price 50c. and $1.00
Sloan's Liniment is sold in all drug stores, or by mail from Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

YOUNG MEN, LEARN TELEGRAPHY.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OUR GREAT SPECIAL OFFER!

Life Scholarship in Telegraphy. Typewriting and Railroad Agency reduced to $45, and $2.50 of the students' railroad fare paid. Boys, this is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to learn a first-class trade that pays a good salary every month in the year. Excellent board at low rates. New-mans has delightful climate, 8,900 inhabitants, moral surroundings. Students qualify in 4 to 6 months. Our graduates POSITIVELY GUARANTEED POSITIONS paying $45 to $65 per month to start on. Easy and pleasant employment, rapid promotion. Diplomas awarded. GREAT DEMAND FOR TELEGRAPH OPERATORS. Write today for our Free, 64-page illustrated Catalog which gives full particulars. SOUTHERN SCHOOL OF TELEGRAPHY, Box 272, Newman, Ga.

KID RIDGE.

Miss Ruby Cook has been on the sick list this week.

Miss Lillie Bradford is quite sick at this writing.

Tom Jones and wife and Mrs. Sutton and wife passed through this section Monday.

Miss Myrtle Tabor and little sister, visited their aunt, Mrs. Celia Tabor Monday.

Ernest Brown has returned from a short visit in Illinois.

Miss Annie King visited Miss Gertie Jones Thursday afternoon.

The music at Dellie Bigham Monday night, was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Weather is very pleasant at this writing.

Mrs. M. C. Teer and daughter, visited Mrs. Myrtle Boist Monday.

Ollie Clement is on the sick list.

Miss Susie Teer visited her sister, Mrs. Elein Jones Monday.

The Union meeting at Fredonia Thursday, had fine attendance and was enjoyed by all who attended.

Furs are selling at a high price.

The music at F. M. Tabor was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Miss Eva Teer and brother, Everett, of Salem, visited the relatives near Crayne Saturday.

Miss Susie Russell was the guest of Miss Nonie Tabor Saturday.

Mrs. Ewen Jones has been very sick in the past week.

Roads are in good condition.

Miss Audie Ordway is intending to teach school this spring at Crayne, and it being her first school, I wish her great success and many pleasures all through the term.

Miss Autie Ordway visited her sister Monday.

Sickness is raging in this section.

Mr. Polle Pearce is sick at the present.

The Lilly Dail school will close soon. A fine entertainment is expected. Everybody is invited.

COOD POSITIONS

Draughon gives contracts, backed by cash of $30,000,000 capital, and 10 years' success, to secure positions under reasonable conditions of salary and tuition.

BOOKKEEPING Draughon's competitors, by not accepting his proposition, concede that he teaches bookkeeping in 3 months, months than the best in the U. S. Draughon can convince you.

SHORTHAND 75 per cent of the United States Court Reporters write the system of shorthand Draughon teaches, because they know it is the best. For FREE CATALOGUE of books, write to Draughon, which explain all, call on or write to J. S. DRAUGHON, President.

DRAUGHON'S PRACTICAL BUSINESS COLLEGE (Incorporated)

Evansville, Paducah, Nashville, Memphis, St. Louis or Washington D. C.

DR. BELL'S ANTI-PAIN For Internal and External Pains.

A GENUINE SURETY
BOND GUARANTEE
PACKED INSIDE EACH ROLL OF CONGO ROOFING
NEVER LEAK

Congo is the only Ready Roofing carrying the National Surety Co.'s bond. It carries with it terms and conditions that make it especially attractive to anyone who must consider the roofing question.

For 10 years you can rest easy about your roofs if covered with 3-ply Congo, and we know that it is probable you will get even longer service out of it.

The Surety Company is issuing these bonds, and back of them is their two million dollars of assets. It is a matter of keen satisfaction to us that they were willing to stand behind Congo Roofing.

You are immune from any responsibility other than giving the roofing ordinary care. Write to-day for samples of Congo and full information.

Remember, that with every roll of Congo you get a genuine Surety Bond.

T.H. Cochran & Co

HENRY & HENRY
BUILDERS OF
ARTISTIC MEMORIALS
IN MARBLE--GRANITE AND STONE.
WE-ERECT--WORK--ANY-- WHERE.

PRICES ALWAYS LOWEST FOR HIGH GRADE WORK

We solicit an opportunity to call on you, with our designs and samples.

WRITE FOR PRICES.

Concrete Bldg, Marion, Ky.

